New Edition of Congress and Health

The National Health Council has published an updated fifth edition of its 88-page book Congress and Health: An Introduction to the Legislative Process and its Key Participants. Designed for both professional and student, the handbook is a one-stop resource document on the 98th Congress and its involvement in the health field. It's available at a prepaid price of $7 each ($6 for council members) from the National Health Council, 70 W. 40th Street, New York, NY 10018. The council is a private, nonprofit membership association of health organizations; it was founded in 1920.

Midwest District Convention Features Computer Workshop

The three-day Midwest District Convention Feb. 16-18 at the Hyatt Regency in Indianapolis will present sessions all day Friday and from 8 am to 10 am Saturday on various aspects of computer-assisted teaching. Running concurrently both days will be health education programs on such topics as herpes, anorexia nervosa, teaching responsible drinking techniques, and wellness for the nonwell. For further information contact: Barbara Passmore, Ph.D., 183G Physical Education Bldg., Indiana State University, Terre Haute, IN 47809.

Women and Drugs Now Available from GPO

A new volume, Women and Drugs, now available from the Government Printing Office, is a collection of the most representative, significant research and theory on women and drugs in the recent past. Research has been conducted in many disciplines and from many points of view, and these are now summarized in Women and Drugs: statistics, purposes, methodology, results, and conclusions of 303 empirical research studies. Stock number: 017-024-01167-3; 343 pp., $8. Send prepayment to Dept. 36-DF, Superintendent of Documents, Washington, DC 20402, or to order by MasterCard or VISA, call 202/783-3238.

Nutri-Bytes: A Palatable Way to Learn Nutrition

Nutrition and food additive quizzes, a novel diet analysis, and a food additive data base are now available on diskette for personal computers from the Center for Science in the Public Interest. The programs are menu-driven and simple to use. No special computer or scientific knowledge is needed to operate them. They are designed especially for health clinics, health fairs, doctors' offices, and schools, and provide an enjoyable, sometimes humorous, way of encouraging people to eat a low-cost, health-promoting diet. Nutri-Bytes is available for CP/M computers with 64K RAM and for Apple. Three colorful wall-posters also come with the price of $29.95. The Center for Science in the Public Interest, 1755 S Street, NW, Washington, DC

Grant Funds Project to Train Family Physicians In Sexuality Education

Planned Parenthood of East Central Indiana, Muncie, Ind., has been awarded $13,300 from the Indiana State Board of Health for the development of a plan to train family practice physicians in sexuality education. The grant's funding involves creating curricula for grades K-12, as well as creating a plan for training the family practice residents. David Marini, Ph.D., Department of Physiology and Health Science, Ball State University, Muncie, will be the primary consultant in the creation of the curricula. Upon completion of the project, PPECI hopes to be funded for its implementation during 1984.
